Fourth Cooking School Opens at Saenger Governor Favors Increasing Money For Road Audits

Afternoon Series 2 to 4 Is Begun By Mrs. Stafford

300 Women Turn Out for Best Opening of Three Years' History

TO RUN FOUR DAYS

Prizes Offered Those in Attendance at Each Afternoon's Close

More than 30 women thronged Second street Tuesday on their way to the opening session of The Star's fourth annual free Cooking School, which began at 2 o'clock in the Saenger theater in the afternoon.

Twenty Co-Operatives

Twenty nationally-known food lines, brands of household supplies, and Hope merchants, are represented among the co-operatives with The Star and the Saenger theater in the 1932 School.

The opening session got under way smoothly with the help of Manager Elmer Hecht and the theater staff.

Mrs. Stafford was introduced by Alex. H. Washburn, publisher of The Star, shortly after 2 o'clock, and another Cooking School was on its way toward making local merchandising history.

Co-operatives are to be given away following each lecture-demonstration, participation in which will be possible only for those housewives actually in attendance at the School.

Runs Through Friday

This year's Cooking School opens each afternoon at 2 o'clock, running exactly two hours, ending promptly at 4. There is no admission charge, attendance being made absolutely free by The Star and the Saenger theater.

The School runs through Friday afternoon, March 18, a total of four afternoon programs.

During the School sessions, Manager Hecht has discontinued the Saenger matinee programs, the picture shows holding forth at night as usual. The Saenger attraction Tuesday and Wednesday is "The False Madonna," starring Kay Francis.

250 Lawyers Seek Share in $70,000,000

Throng Jams New York Court to Protest Wendel Will Probate

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Ready for their fight to prevent the $70,000,000 Ella J. Wendel estate from going to charity, nearly 250 lawyers appeared in Surrogate's Court Monday to object to admitting the will to probate. Lawyers and about 200 of the 1,500 claimants to the estate milled about the courtroom, as proceedings got under way.

Acting Surrogate Richard Cummins suggested that each of the many claimants may have to file bills of particulars, including proof of kinship from a common ancestor.

Claimants continue to appear. The newest is Mrs. Anna Bechler of Danzig, Germany, who claims to be a great granddaughter of John Gottlieb Wendel.

Mrs. Bechler declares that John Wendel left a wife and two children in Germany when he sailed in 1799 for America.

Arthur Garfield Hays, who represents some 50 of the claimants, including Rosa Dow Stansbury of Vicksburg, Miss., heretofore regarded as the closest surviving relative of Miss Wendel, said he will seek to have the case transferred to Westchester county, on the ground that Miss Wendel was a resident there at time of death.

Trial of Fitzsimmons Delayed at Fort Worth

FORT WORTH.—(AP)—Trial of Robin J. Fitzsimmons, charged with robbery in connection with an auto supply company holdup February 12, was continued in criminal district court Monday.

Judge Hosen decided Fitzsimmons was physically unable to stand the strain of a trial after three physicians examined him and reported he had fever.

Companion of Man Found Dead Sought

Young Man Driving Light Sedan, Being Sought by Texas Police

TEXARKANA, Tex.—(AP)—Clues which may lead to the arrest of the driver of an unidentified man found beaten to death on a roadside 35 miles west of here early Sunday, were disclosed by Sheriff Henry Brooks, Monday night.

Milton Shertleff, Mount Vernon, Tex., cafe proprietor, told Bowie county officers that the murder victim, accompanied by a younger man, was in the cafe Saturday night. Shertleff said the man he identified as the murder victim paid for the meals and received in change the amount found in the victim's pocket.

Shertleff said the two were riding in a light sedan with California license plates. A cap found beside the body bore a Los Angeles label and a piece of a Los Angeles newspaper. Shertleff described the younger man as being dark, about five feet 11 inches tall, weighing 160 to 170 pounds, and wearing overalls.

Lloyd Corley, Naples (Tex.) school teacher, told officers that he passed the murder scene at 10:20 p. m. Saturday and that a small sedan was parked on the roadside.

Pleas Armstrong Meets Death at Jenny Lind as Pole Breaks

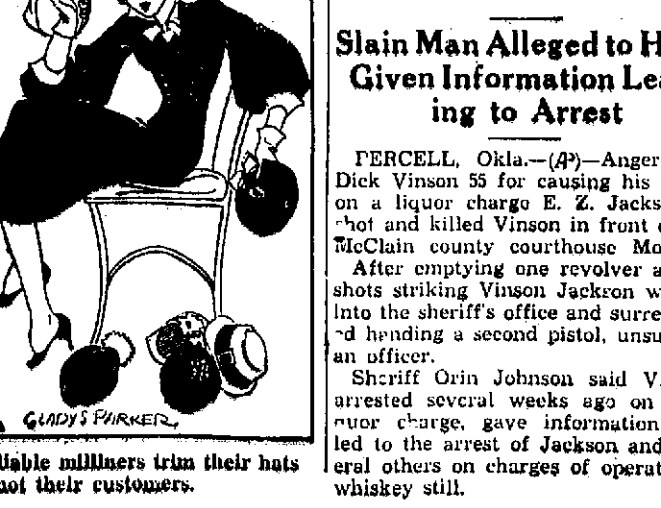

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(AP)—Pleas Armstrong, aged 40, was killed early Monday afternoon at Jenny Lind, 18 miles south of here, when a light pole, which he had ascended to untangle wires, broke beneath his weight. Officials of the Mississippi Valley Power Company, of which he was an employee, said the current was turned off. He is survived by his wife and three children.

Dies of Heart Attack While Home Is Burning

MOUNT IDA.—Excitement caused by a fire which destroyed the home of Brack Stanley, in the Elhorna community, nine miles east of Mount Ida, late Sunday, resulted in the death of Van Smith, aged 65, a neighbor, from a heart attack.

Smith recently had moved back to the community from Mississippi, where he has been living several years. The Stanley home was destroyed.

New York Resident Questioned About Lindbergh Baby

Frank Berg, Once Under Suspicion Concerning Kidnap Plot

WOMAN IS INVOLVED

Police Make Trip Tuesday on Tip From Collar Manufacturer

HOPEWELL, N. J.—(AP)—Investigators went to New York City Tuesday to question Frank Berg, prominent figure in a fantastic alleged kidnap attempt years ago to determine whether or not new clues might be obtained from him in the Lindbergh kidnaping mystery.

Berg was arrested in 1925 in connection with a reported attempt to lure Max Phillips, wealthy collar manufacturer aboard Berg's yacht.

Berg and a woman involved, were never indicted and the charges against them were dropped.

Phillips went last week to New Jersey state police and they agreed to make an effort to see if there was any connection between this and the present case.

Smith Is Questioned

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The mysterious John Smith, questioned last week about the Lindbergh kidnaping and moved from Toms prison to the west side prison, was taken in an automobile Tuesday, to the office of Commissioner of correction for further examination.

It was learned that Smith, whose age, name and occupation were withheld, was the subject of a conference of high police officials Monday afternoon in the west side prison.

Texas Couple Are Found Murdered

Verdict of Murder and Suicide Is Returned in Beaumont Tragedy

BEAUMONT, Tex.—(AP)—The shot-riddled bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cotton were found Monday at their home four miles from Beaumont. A verdict of murder and suicide was returned by Coroner J. A. Ward. The double slaying was discovered by the Cotton children, Everett, 18, and Eldred, 14, when they arose.

Cotton's body was found in bed. That of his wife was lying on the kitchen floor. A shotgun was found in the kitchen. From its position Coroner Ward decided it had been propped against a wall and the trigger manipulated with a piece of wood.

Investigators believed Mrs. Cotton shot her husband while he slept and then went to the kitchen, where she took her own life.

The younger son testified at the inquest that he heard a shot about 5 or 5:30 a. m. Monday morning but was too sleepy to pay any attention to it.

Appropriation for River Work Urged

Hoover Asks Immediately $60,000,000 to Avoid Labor Lay-Offs

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Hoover Monday appealed to Congress to appropriate immediately the $60,000,000 necessary for river and harbor works for 1933, "in order to avoid unemployment."

"It appears that the regular War Department appropriation act for 1933 will be delayed beyond the usual time," the president's message said.

"The budget estimate for maintenance and improvement of existing river and harbor works for 1933 is $60,000,000, which should become immediately available upon passage of the act."

"I am now advised by the secretary of war that depending upon usual course of appropriations, the engineers have entered upon certain contracts, continuance of which has depended upon passage of the appropriation at the usual time."

Mississippi Seeks To Merge Bureaus

The Legislature Considers Consolidation of Departments

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Consolidation and elimination of state departments and proposed economies were urged in the legislature Monday. Appointment of a joint House and Senate Committee to study consolidations was approved in the House. The resolution was sent to the Senate.

In addition, a group of individual bills appeared in the two chambers looking to departmental mergers and several economy bills were given approval.

The House unanimously ratified the proposed amendment to the federal constitution to eliminate "lame duck" sessions of Congress and provide for inauguration of presidents on January 20 instead of March 4.

Important among department mergers proposed in new bills Monday was the measure sponsored by Senators Blair, Herring, Young and Warren, calling for abolition of the State Livestock Sanitary Board, State Plant Board and Mississippi Agricultural Service Department and transfer of their activities to a centralized state Department of Agriculture to be controlled by the governor, lieutenant governor and commissioner of agriculture.

In the House, Chairman McCallum of the Ways and Means Committee introduced a bill to abolish 10 boards now governing eleemosynary institutions and to establish in their stead one state Eleemosynary Board. The bill would effect for charitable institutions the same type of consolidation that was earlier voted through the legislature for state colleges.

Institutions which would be placed under the Central Board are: Beauvoir Confederate Soldiers' Home, Ellisville State School, state hospitals for insane at Jackson and Meridian, state charity hospitals at Jackson, Vicksburg, Laurel, Natchez and Meridian, and the Mississippi Tubercular Sanatorium.

Five Men in Waiting as Bank Employees Report for Duty

CLINTON, Iowa.—(AP)—After binding 38 employees and customers in a rear room, five men Tuesday robbed the City National Bank of an amount estimated at $100,000.

The men met Clyde Willets, bank janitor, when he opened the barred rear door to fire the furnace at 6:30 Tuesday morning, and set him to work around the office to allay suspicion of those passing by the bank.

One of the gang stationed himself behind the front door and as each employee entered forced him into a rear room, where they were bound and gagged by others who were waiting there.

To cashiers were forced to open the vault.

The money was recovered on a farm three hours later, where it was left by the robbers, who were hotly pursued by a posse of officers and residents.

Spring Hill Court Binds Over Wyatt

Second Negro Suspect Is Held for Murder of Alfred Wallace

Henry Wyatt, second negro suspect in the Alfred Wallace murder case was bound over to the April grand jury Tuesday noon at a preliminary hearing before Justices Mike Foley and A. J. Lafferty at Spring Hill.

Wyatt, who was arrested at the request of Constable Frank Turner and Jim Bearden, deputy constable, was committed to jail without bond.

Deputy Prosecuting Attorney John Vesty appeared for the state, while Attorney P. T. Stages represented the accused. Sheriff John Wilson and his deputies brought Ed Washington to the scene as a witness.

Washington had previously been bound over without bail in the same murder case, at a hearing conducted before Municipal Judge U. A. Gentry in Hope municipal court. Wyatt was a witness against Washington, prisoner who had been held by Sheriff Wilson.

Newport Fire Loss Placed at $9,000

Three Companies Suffer Heavy Loss in Early Morning Blaze

NEWPORT.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Newport Cabinet shop, the Newport Fish Company, and the Nebl depository and distributing station on lower Front street about 4 Monday morning, causing loss of about $9,000. The blaze started in the cabinet shop and spread rapidly.

S. Heilmann owned the brick building which housed the three concerns and also owned the cabinet shop. Max Young of Judsonia was owner of the Nebl establishment and lost a large stock of bottled drinks and a truck.

He plans to reopen in another location at once. The Newport Fish Company was owned and operated by Otto O'Neal. Loss is partly covered by insurance.

Seed Loan Fraud Charged In Trial of Twelve Men

DOthan, Ala.—(AP)—Details of tenant farming in Houston county were unfolded before a United States District Court jury Monday as the government began presenting evidence in an effort to establish a conspiracy between a circuit solicitor, a county farm demonstration agent and 10 Houston county residents to obstruct justice and defraud the government in obtaining seed loans.

Two defendants told of making applications for loans and tendering checks to landlords who made purchases of supplies. They are Earl Hammond, Dothan druggist, and W. W. Wofford, Ashford merchant, both extensive land owners.

County Judges to Resist Reduction

State Association Meets in Little Rock Again Tuesday Noon

LITTLE ROCK.—A special meeting of the County Judges Association here Tuesday to consider the danger of a loss by the counties of the gasoline tax turnback money through legislation proposed for the special session of the legislature, was called Monday. The meeting will open at the courthouse at noon. Judge Lawhon of Pulaski county issued the call after conferring with Judge J. G. Ragdale of Union county, president of the association of county judges.

Judge Lawhon said he discussed the situation with Judge Ragdale by telephone before he sent telegrams to all the judges. Several of the judges were in Little Rock Monday preparing to resist all efforts to impound for the Highway Department the proceeds of the extra-cent gasoline tax imposed by the 1931 session.

Judge R. M. Ruthven of Baxter county endorsed the suggestion for an immediate meeting, and said that he would be here. It was expected that a committee of judges would be selected to remain in Little Rock throughout the legislative session.

Since the Martineau road plan was offered in 1927, there has been a biennial legislative fight over county turnback. The original Martineau proposal provided for no turnback, but county judges succeeded at the 1927 session in obtaining an allotment for the biennium beginning in that year.

At the 1931 session, the county judges first asked $3,000,000 a year, which was the amount allotted to counties before 1927. They accepted the bill which became Act No. 63, under which the sixth cent of the state gasoline tax was levied. This extra cent was to provide revenue for county highways and the proceeds were distributed quarterly.

A provision of this act authorized the use of the turnback money by the state if the highway revenue falls below $7,500,000 a year, or whatever part of it may be required to enable the state to meet obligations on state highway bond issues.

Several county judges said that apparently their organization last year was "tricked" into assuming responsibility for the increase in gasoline tax.

Judges have contracted indebtedness for road purposes in the belief that the state turnback would provide the money for paying the obligations, several of them said yesterday. They told of machinery and other equipment which has been acquired with the understanding that it would be paid for with allotments from the state treasury. If they are deprived of the turnback it will be impossible to pay these debts, they said.

Transfer of Farm Board Advocated

Byrnes of Alabama Urges Transfer to Agriculture Department

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Transfer of the Farm Board's duties to the Agriculture Department was urged before the Senate Agriculture Committee Tuesday by Senator Byrnes, South Carolina Democrat, as an economy move.

He said that the country was in favor of abolishing the board and further testified that it was unnecessary to maintain the board to encourage co-operative marketing as this work could be done by the agriculture department.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Transfer of the Little Theater movement, which was organized in Hope about two weeks ago, has met with an overwhelming reception. The group that at the present time comprises Hope's Little Theater, met Monday night at the Saenger and formulated plans to present the first dramatic effort of this body at the Saenger Theater Tuesday night, March 22.

The play to be presented is entitled "Suppressed Desires." It is a comedy drama. The members of the Little Theater will sell tickets for this performance and E. W. Hecht, manager of the Saenger, has promised this organization a percentage of each ticket sold. The money raised in presenting this play will go to defray expenses of the cast in competing in the annual Little Theater contest that is held in Batesville the early part of May. In addition to the one-act comedy drama the feature picture that will show at the Saenger on that date is "Strangers in Love" with Fredric March and Kay Francis.

The Private Papers of a Public Man
I RECOMMEND this editorial to the members of the Highway Audit Commission from whom the people of Arkansas are expecting an adequate investigation of the expenditure of nearly 100 million dollars of public funds the last five years.
The people expect more than a mere bookkeeping audit.
They expect this investigation to go behind the record and size up the personal finances of every official who has handled this great public fund.
There still exists in some quarters a belief in the legal fiction that an office-holder can't be touched if his books are in balance. In this particular court of public opinion it is held that no matter whether the office-holder has gathered a great fortune on his small official salary, if his public records are in shape he can't be touched with the taint of fraud.
That is a theory which has just been exploded.
I offer to the members of the Highway Audit Commission the record of Samuel Seabury, chief counsel of the Hofstadter committee which investigated the corrupt magistrate courts of New York City, threw half a dozen Tammany jurists off the bench, and jailed many of the police vice-squad for extortion, bribery and graft.
Judge Seabury, who once sat with Benjamin N. Cardozo, of the Supreme Court of the United States, when both were distinguished members of the New York Court of Appeals, in the course of his investigation destroyed forever the idea that a public man can have any private records when suspicion has been placed upon him.
I quote the following from Walter Chambers' biography
"Samuel Seabury—a Challenge" (Century Co.), pages 252-53-54, in which Judge Seabury about this time a year ago won a decision in the highest court of New York compelling a police officer to reveal his bank deposits and other private records:
"Charles A. Wund was a vice-squad policeman who protested Referee Seabury's inquiry into his bank accounts. He brought suit for a writ of prohibition against Seabury, declaring that in subpoenaing his bank and check-book records the referee was violating his right to privacy. After Judge Seabury, who argued the case in person, had won a summary decision in the Supreme Court, Wund appealed the case to the Appellate Division.
Then, laying aside his judicial robes and speaking with impassioned zeal, Judge Seabury said to the Appellate Division justices:
"If your Honors please, will anybody tell me how I am going to investigate the conditions prevailing in the magistrates' courts in New York City if I am not allowed to inquire into the relations which the officers who made these arrests had with the bondsmen and lawyers? I say that such an investigation would be an utter farce; such an investigation would overlook the real facts of this whole situation.
"Now what is the situation as to Wund? Wund has been, since 1922, a vice officer of the City of New York. It appears, upon the testimony that Wund has given, that he was formerly employed as a milkman and was engaged in the delivery of milk. It appears that his wife is engaged in no business. His father was not a man of means and was a retired process-server.
His mother at the time of her death had no means of her own. Wund admits that the only source of his income from May 5, 1922, to the date of these presentations (Seabury's explanation) consists of his salary, which is some $3,000 a year, and the purchase and sale of securities, and in the latter his operations resulted in a loss of $20,000.
"Now it appears that on January 1, 1925, Wund's bank account and his wife's bank accounts show that every dollar they had was $243.50; and then he goes on the vice-squad at a salary of $3,000 a year. Up to 1928 he lays by a little money outside of his salary. From January, 1928, to December, 1930, this ex-milkman, this man who had not a dollar in the world when he went on the police force outside of his $243.50, has accumulated $83,000.00."
By unanimous decision the Appellate Division denied Wund's plea and ordered him to pay the costs of the litigation.
The above is just a small incident taken from the thrilling story of a master investigator.
Arkansas would do well to follow Judge Seabury's methods—look up the financial story of individuals in public office, and leave the lawyers to wrangle over the details of the public record.
If Judge Seabury had rested simply on the written record, he never could have expelled the corrupt judges and "shoo-fly" cops from New York. But he didn't rest there. He got down to the individual bank accounts and property-records of the men in office, and if they couldn't account for their money legitimately they were presumed to be guilty—as indeed they were, are, and always will be.

Friendly Germany
IT WAS interesting to read the recent cable dispatches telling of the elaborate celebration which the German government held to commemorate the bicentennial year of George Washington's birth.
The ceremonies were held in the historic Reichstag under the patronage of President von Hindenburg. Chancelor Bruening delivered the chief address, the stars and stripes were abundantly displayed and a German military band played "The Star-Spangled Banner"—the first time that tune ever sounded in those halls.
This would seem to indicate that the bitterness of World War days is about forgotten, as far as Germany and America are concerned. The traditional friendship between the two nations, tragically interrupted by the war-madness of the last Hohenzollern, has been resumed. Let us hope that it will never again be broken.

IODIZED OR PLAIN 10¢ THE PACKAGE
Rain mars the running of the English Derby, the famous turf event which attracts a crowd of more than a million yearly.
Morton's Iodized Salt is America's largest seller because it's the one salt that never cakes or hardens. Made with cube-shaped crystals, which tumble off one another instead of sticking together like the flake crystals of inferior salts, it pours every bit as freely on rainy days as on dry! This famous salt also protects children against simple goiter, that common cause of loss of appetite, lack of vigor and backwardness at school. Yet 10¢ a month is all it costs to use it!

An Old Wine Cellar
LONDON.—One of the world's most remarkable and oldest wine cellars is the huge Crescent vault in the London Docks. Built more than 125 years ago, it is still in use. It covers more than three acres, and contains more than 750,000 gallons of wine. The wine is aged under constant temperature. Keg menders make daily trips through the cellar to look for leaks in the barrels.
Receipts of citrus fruit marketed through Anaheim, Cal., houses during 1931 totaled more than $2,500,000.

We may live without poetry, music and art;
We may live without conscience, and live without heart;
We may live without friends; we may live without books;
But civilized man cannot live without cooks.
He may live without books—what is knowledge but grieving.
He may live without hope—what is hope but deceiving.
He may live without love—what is passion but pining.
But where is the man that can live without dining.

Apache On Trial As Co-ed's Slayer

Death Penalty Sought for Alleged Murderer of White Girl

GLOBE, Ark. (AP)—Mac Goiney Seymour, 21, Apache buck, went on trial Monday for the killing last summer of Henriette Schmeier, intellectual Columbia University co-ed.

Her home, of which Seymour knew nothing, was New York and she came to study the Apache, once fearsome renegade of the Southwest Indians, as a reward for her scholastic accomplishments at the university. She wanted to learn the innermost secrets of the taciturn Apache and presumably her eagerness led to her death.

She met Seymour and later her body was found in a gully after she had left her cottage for a Saturday night dance on the Indians. Seymour came to his White Father's "court." One of the two men heard talking Monday was his attorney, John F. Dougherty—the other John Gungl, United States district attorney for Arizona. The men in the box were 12 prospective jurors, from whom Gungl will seek to obtain the penalty of death.

Dougherty, in questioning prospective jurors, and later in discussions, indicated he will seek to justify the killing or at least show extenuating circumstances on all possible grounds, including self defense.

The possibility of self defense will be raised through the story of Robert Gatewood, Apache witness for the government, that Miss Schmeier had threatened to kill Seymour because he would not marry her and had tried to stab him.

Dougherty also indicated he would show that the Indian was intoxicated and did not comprehend the gravity of his acts.

Stamp Leader

LONDON.—London now claims the lead in the world's stamp trade. During the past year more than $2,500,000 was spent in stamp auctions here. One stamp on display during the year was the one-cent British Guiana stamp which is probably worth $90,000.

"BACK FROM DEAD" WITH THRILLING STORY

LOS ANGELES. —Given up for dead when he failed to return from a fishing trip at Randolph Field, Texas, last September, Ralph "Jerry" Selz, aviation cadet, has returned safe and sound. His rowboat was swamped and he was picked up by a rum runner who held him prisoner for 13 days and then put him aboard a Swedish freighter bound for Honduras.

Ralph Selz he says. For two months Selz walked through Honduras, Guatemala and Salvador to La Union, Salvador, where Captain William Calcutt, commander of the City of San Francisco, took the penniless youth aboard and back to the United States.

Crossville, Tenn., Has Exciting Day

Crowds Throng Town but Baby Is Not the Lindbergh Heir

CROSSVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A country storekeeper's suspicion that a baby lodged for the night at a neighbors' boarding house was the missing Chas. Augustus Lindbergh Jr., upset the Sabbath calm of this little mountain town Sunday and brought on an unprecedented "boom."

People poured in by automobile and airplane as the news spread and the 1,500 normal population soon was outnumbered 3 to 1 by visitors.

Mrs. Peggy Mitchell, 30, her husband Homer, 35, and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Young, 50, and 55, respectively, were arrested Saturday night at a boarding house at Ozone, near here. Mrs. Mitchell said the baby was her sister's and was born November 3, 1930, in the Methodist Bronson hospital at Kalamazoo, Mich., where she told reporters her sister was registered as Virginia Jones. Both she and her sister, she said, were daughters of Mrs. Young by a former marriage.

Physicians here examining the baby after officials had communicated with Colonel Lindbergh by telephone and found that it did not tally in several characteristics with the description of the missing child. Photographs were taken and sent to New York by telephone for examination by the Lindberghs.

Some of the differences were that the child here had been circumcized and no mole could be found on the feet.

Sunday night however, authorities continued to hold the two couples and the baby until the sheriff should receive "definite and direct information from Colonel Lindbergh."

Crowds jammed the jail yard until they passed against the fence and reporters in the jail were able to work their way out with difficulty. Finally state patrolmen cleared the yard, but the curious throng remained outside the fence, where they brought up wood and built fires to keep warm. The temperature was below freezing. Unaccustomed to handling crowds, Crossville's food supplies soon were depleted.

Throughout the day the crowd remained good natured, its only interest being to get a glimpse of the curly haired, blue eyed baby that resembled the famous Lindbergh heir. Persons peered through doors and windows until doctors said the child was so "scared" that it was removed to another room, where a trained nurse and several townswomen looked after it.

Later, however, after the baby had had its nap, officers permitted the crowds to peer in a window at it.

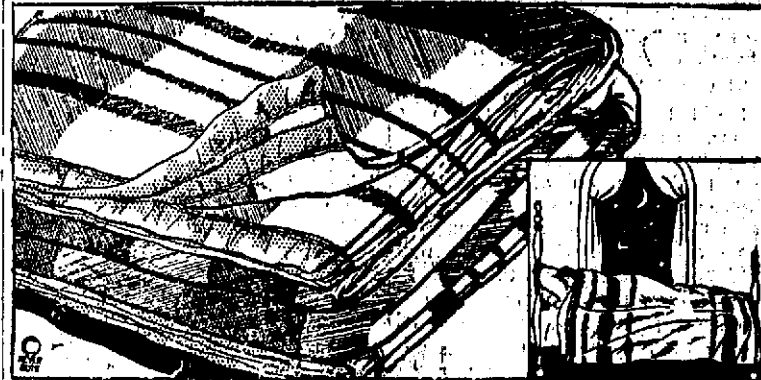

Calls came from all over the South and East and there were two from Europe—from London and Paris newspapers—for the first trans-Atlantic conversations in Crossville's history.

In Wake of Capital Storm

The savage wind that swirled up the Atlantic seaboard, imperiling shipping and leaving widespread property damage in its wake, took its toll at the nation's capital, too. This picture shows how some of the famous trees near the Capitol building were uprooted and hurled to the snow-blanketed ground while the storm raged. It was Washington's fiercest gale in nearly ten years.
